

A Photographic Exhibition by

Bob Stewart

40 years ago.

Stewart, 1977

In the summer of 1977, Bob Stewart trained his camera on the kids of East 7th Street. At the time, he was an East Village resident, working for the New York Metropolitan Baptist Association as a summer missionary. Stewart, now a professor of journalism at Ohio University, revisits this time with an exhibit of 20 images that evoke the ordinary, steamy days of one hot New York summer.

Oct. 29–Nov. 30, 2017
Graffiti Church
205 East 7th Street